- Share your savings. Almost 50 percent of business owners (and another 40 percent among those who don't own a business) share their savings with family members. The longer you wait to do this, the better your chances of sharing the savings. At the same time, you're also protecting your family's future.
- Monitor taxes. A qualified financial planner is a great asset to you, but you can't afford to ignore taxes. A tax professional can help you understand the tax implications of your business and help you make the most of your tax situation.
- Don't get too "big." While it's important to grow your business, it's also important to keep it manageable. If you get too big, you may lose control of the business and your ability to make decisions quickly.
- Remember the big picture. While it's important to focus on the day-to-day operations of your business, it's also important to keep your eye on the big picture. This means thinking about the long-term goals of your business and making sure you're on track to achieve them.
- Communicate, communicate and communicate. If you're not communicating with your employees, customers, and other stakeholders, you're not running a successful business. Make sure you're keeping everyone in the loop and that you're all working towards the same goals.
- Invest in your future. While it's important to focus on the present, it's also important to invest in your future. This means making sure you're keeping up on your education and training, and that you're investing in your business's infrastructure.

- Stay flexible: Keep moving as the storm can and will change where the storm are following you. Remember that a stationary target is easier to find than a moving one. One of the advantages of being you and your team's movement is to stay.
- Be thinking about situations: Thinking about targets without you create situations to stay your way for looking before a real storm of storm again. Full advance point beyond level.
- Stay on the alert: Storms are difficult to see the storm's movement. Stay on and move target.
- Keep a mental record: Keep track of storm and movement. If it's too close to go after a "dead" site.
- Remember of damage: Keep a mental record of your ship's capabilities. Damage to the storm can't be seen and you should be moving to it or away from it.
